INTRODUCTION TO THE BIBLE

Daniel F. Cates

Part XXX: Amos

While the "Minor Prophets" are so named due to their sizes relative to the "Major Prophets" [rather than due to any inferiority content wise], there are some exceptions to the rule; for instance, the "major" prophecies of Daniel and Lamentations are twelve and five chapters, respectively, while the prophecies of Hosea and Zechariah (fourteen chapters) are yet considered "minor." Amos at nine chapters falls a little shorter than these two and Daniel, but is longer than Lamentations; in no wise, however, is it of any less value than any of the other Biblical books! It is a Divinely inspired book which poignantly and accurately foretold Israel's fall and the sinfulness which hastened it while giving hope for an assured future revival--and it is loaded with lessons for God's people today or in any other age.

Amos was not some classically trained prophet [he had not studied under some prophet like Elijah, and certainly had not presumptuously acted as something he was not]; he had been "among the herdmen of Tekoa" (Amos 1:1) "a gatherer of sycomore fruit" who was not even "a prophet's son" (Amos 7:14); he was a prophet nonetheless, though, for "the LORD said unto [him-DFC], Go, prophesy unto my people Israel. ... Prophecy not against Israel, and drop not thy word against the house of Isaac" (Amos 7:15,16). Among his prophecy was the book at hand (Amos 1:1; 7:8; 8:2). He was from Tekoa, south of Bethlehem, but may have prophesied in Jerusalem (Amos 1:2) and Bethel (Amos 7:13), though those references could merely represent the source and object of his prophecy. Of his personal nature, nothing else is revealed in Scripture,

Amos prophesied in the mid-700s B.C. , for he prophesied in the days of Judah's Uzziah (767-740 B.C.) and Israel's Jeroboam II (782-753 B.C.); the earthquake mentioned with these in Amos 1:1 likely refers to the one mentioned which was mentioned also by Zechariah (14:4-5, "... ye shall flee, like as ye fled from before the earthquake in the days of Uzziah king of Judah: ...") and, extra-biblically, by Josephus (Antiquities of the Jews, IX.x.4) who wrote, "While Uzziah was in this state, ... In the mean time a great earthquake shook the ground and a rent was made in the temple, and the bright rays of the sun shone through it, and fell upon the king's face, insomuch that the leprosy seized upon him immediately. And before the city, at a place called Eroge, half the mountain broke off from the rest on the west, and rolled itself four furlongs, and stood still at the east mountain, till the roads, as well as the king's gardens, were spoiled by the obstruction." (To be continued next week)

"That we henceforth be no more children, tossed to and fro, and carried about with every wind of doctrine, by the sleight of men, and cunning craftiness, whereby they lie in wait to deceive; But speaking the truth in love, may grow up into him in all things, which is the head, even Christ:" (Ephesians 4:14,15)
